An important move in connection with the survey of The Evening World as to the recreation possibilities for the summer is that of taking children who have had whooping cough from the crowded sections of the city to places where they can recoup without further menace to public health.

there have been an unusual number of whooping cough cases, nothing short of an epidemic.

Af already set forth in this news paper, all the piers of the city could be utilized during the hot weather for recreation purposes. But this avenue out for children recovering from disease is naturally closed. It is, therefore, of vital importance that some action be taken whereby such children may get proper attention, so that the child malady may be arrested and, at the same time, hese children brought back to nor mal condition.

The Evening World has urged that every possible means be taken and every possible place utilized for recreational purposes, with the idea that such health centres be established close to the congested areas.

Among these features will be mor play streets for the children, established with the aid of the Traffic Commissioners; shower baths in thickly populated sections are also deemed of the utmost importance in this connection. In the Mulberry section alone, a study of 600 families disclosed not a single bathroom in any of the
